67 BROAD STREET

NEW YORK 4, N. Y.

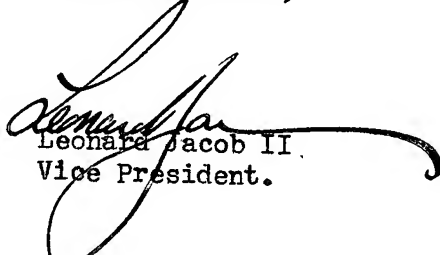

April 9, 1947.

Dear Admiral Hillenkoetter:

Colonel Behn has asked me to get in touch with you over the week-end in the hope that he would have the pleasure of having luncheon with you prior to your leaving for Washington, but unfortunately, I was not able to locate you before you left the city.

Colonel Behn is leaving for Cuba at the end of this week but expects to return within a few days, and should your plans in the immediate future include a visit to New York, I know that he would be most happy if you could accept an invitation to luncheon with us here at 67 Broad Street at that time.

Sincerely yours,

Leonard Jacob II
Vice President.
